

It was during some presentation with my trainees when <Carlos> pulled me for an interview. I <laid> it out: I let him know my experience here + elsewhere... why I was the top candidate, and what my intentions were. It went very smooth and he and I agreed on many things. At the end, he asked if I would be willing to try the lead if not picked for the supervisor... I said yes, but reminded him I applied for the supervisor position... He remembered.