

From Jan - April, It was business as usual... with training, nothing too crazy, a lot of finishing touches on AA2013, getting used to being on my own/upgrading LP39A. And that essentially brings this story to now... Yes, there is a bunch of random stuff that happened not mentioned in here... but I don't need to rehash everything. I prefer to log about now. Times are good, too. There is, however, one final event I have to write about if I'm going to do this 'catch-up' correctly. Not necessarily an event... but a person:
<Ophelia>